

“The last time I tried calling 9-1-1, my abuser locked me in the back bedroom that only he has a key for.”

Empowering Survivors of Domestic Violence

With Smart911, you can alert 9-1-1 and first responders that you are at risk of abuse so they can better help you in an emergency.

Smart911 is free, private, secure, and protects over 22 million people nationwide.

Personal Details

You can list if someone is at risk of domestic violence and their history of domestic violence.

Medical

Avoid dangerous drug interactions or allergic reactions by listing your medications and conditions.

Home

First responders can help you faster when you provide your address, access codes, and other details about your home's layout.

Emergency Contacts

List the emergency contacts you want to be notified if you need to call 9-1-1.

Because every second counts. Sign up today.

Please note that once information is shared with 9-1-1, it may then be subject to public disclosure. For example, your address could be listed on a police report.
