

Healthcare Emergency Preparedness Needs to Evolve

Survey highlights safety concerns, events impacting organizations' preparedness initiatives

The survey, Emergency Preparedness and Security Trends in the Healthcare Industry, explored the biggest safety concerns for personnel at healthcare organizations throughout the U.S., as well as how often they practice drills and communicate with certain personnel.

The top safety concern by role in hospitals and healthcare facilities

ROLE	BIGGEST CONCERN
Compliance	Cyberattack/weather event
Emergency Management/Preparedness	Active shooter
Environmental, Health & Safety	Weather event
Facilities	System outage/weather event
Information Technology	Cyberattack
Operations	Cyberattack
Security	Workplace violence

Biggest safety concern

36%

Weather events

34%

Active shooters

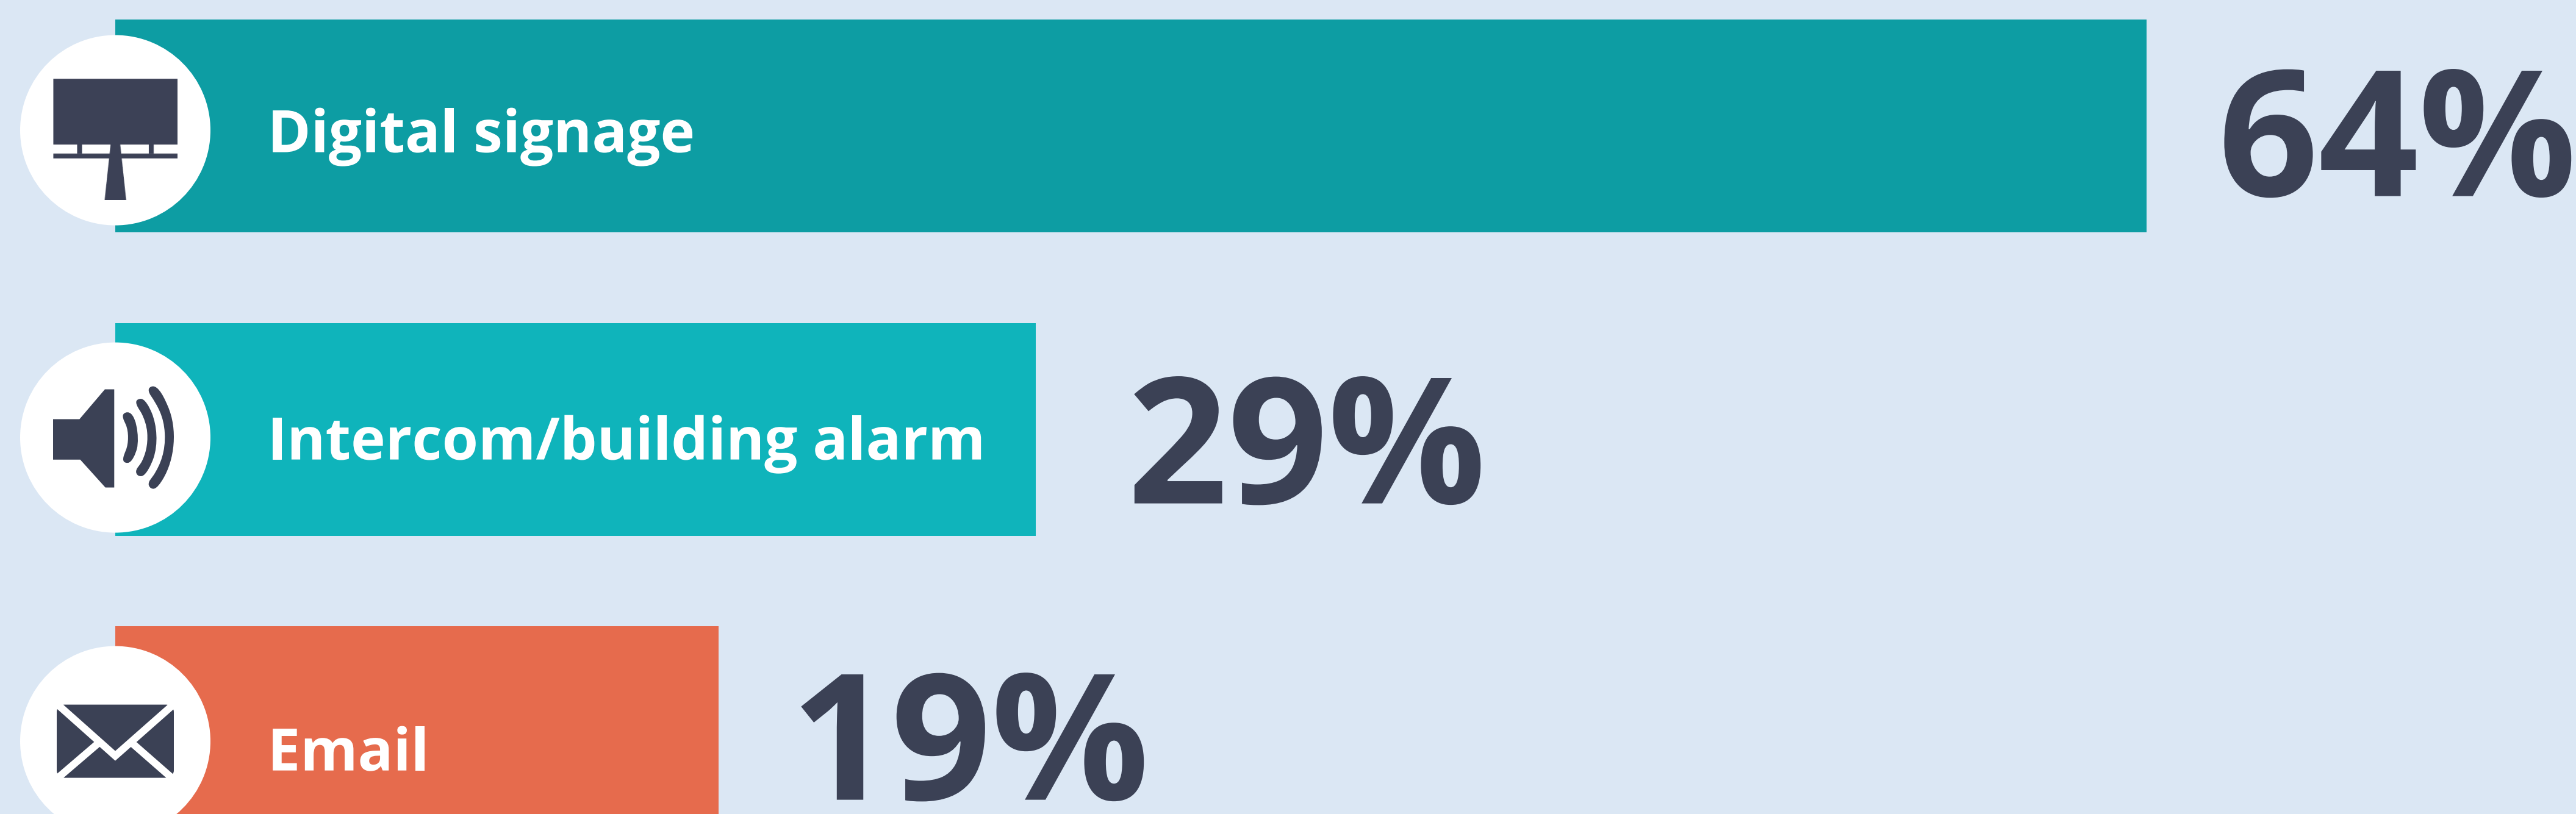

33%

Cyberattacks

36%

of respondents said weather events are the biggest safety concern and the second most common incident reported within the last two years

Modes most frequently used to communicate with employees during workplace emergencies

Modes used to reach employees about shift coverage

48%

Email

40%

Phone tree/voicemail

38%

Mass text messages

View the complete survey, Emergency Preparedness and Security Trends in Healthcare, to learn more about your peers' safety concerns and preparedness initiatives.

Download the survey

